That's how I feel about my song selections for this tour. Just had to get that out.

You are not alone. As I have related to my team - this is the first time I think I could actually score 0 points. So, hang tough.

Well, I ain't superstitious, black cat just cross my trail
Well, I ain't superstitious, oh the black cat just cross my trail
Don't sweep me with no broom, I might get put in jail

When my right hand itches, I gets money for sure
When my right hand itches, I gets money for sure
But, when my left eye jumps, somebody's got to go

Well, I ain't superstitious, black cat just cross my trail
Well, I ain't superstitious, black cat just cross my trail
Don't sweep me with no broom, I just might get put in jail

Well, the dogs are howlin, all over the neighborhood
Whoa, the dogs are howlin, all over the neighborhood
That is true sign of death, baby, that ain't no good

Well, I'm not superstitious, blow that black cat across my trail
Well, I'm not superstitious, a black cat across my trail
Don't sweep me with no broom, I just might get put in jail

I think this is going to be a very low scoring pool.....not necessarily a bad thing though a defensive struggle is it then

Low scoring would have to play to my favor.

Since, of course, Michael hasn't scored since high school.

I think it will be more interesting with the song categories for the new leg of the tour.
Hope he will play a few of our song choices:unsure:

this is extra tough this time around.
i have a really strong feeling that he is going to play Hattie Carroll tonight at the Electric Factory. really strong. i didn't pick it though...cause i don't think it will give me the most points overall in that particular category. time will tell.
