

---

I must be crazy.....but....

Posted by Apocalypso Singer - 2009/11/07 22:26

---

...I booked my flight today and will be in Boston town early afternoon on the 13th. So I got tickets for the show that night and the 15th. On the 14th however I will spend my time in some restaurant with a waitress instead of going to the Wang Theatre, maybe it's good to have some space between two shows.

But if somebody is telling me for sure, Bob will play "One Too Many Mornings" on the 14th, I will here that twang of the arrow and the snap of the bow and will be at the venue to grab a ticket if someone has one to offer.

Anyway, hope to meet some of you there, but since there will be no standing in line I guess I leave my guitar at home, or is there a good place for busking in Boston?

---

Re:I must be crazy.....but....

Posted by wurlitzer - 2009/11/07 23:24

---

the red line subway stations are lucrative, and if the weather is good, get out and play in harvard square.

---

Re:I must be crazy.....but....

Posted by Apocalypso Singer - 2009/11/08 14:32

---

Thanks, but it just looks as if I don't bring my guitar, well, maybe I'm going to buy one in some pawn shop as I did so many times before...

---